

NEWSLETTER - JULY 2007

Hello, welcome to our July newsletter (just made it)!

The government is found guilty of misleading the public over animal suffering; the London Vegan Festival will be upon us very shortly and many marine hotspots to explore.

Last, but not least, would you like to join our team? We are looking for a trusty person to assist us.

Happy reading and thanks again for your support!

THE GOVERNMENT IS FOUND GUILTY OF MISLEADING PUBLIC OVER ANIMAL SUFFERING

The Government was found guilty, on 27th July 2007, of turning a blind eye to substantial suffering of animals in Home Office licensed experiments and consequently misleading the public over the extent of animal suffering in UK laboratories.

Go to www.buav.org/b2\_judicial\_review.php for further details.

Congratulations and thank you to BUAV.

CELEBRATE UK'S AMAZING SEASHORES

The UK's marine environment provides a haven for some of our most fascinating wildlife, such as basking sharks, grey seals, puffins and dolphins. Join The Wildlife Trusts in celebrating the UK's amazing sea animals and plants in August. Take the chance to explore the seashore, discover dunes and wallow with whelks.

Both coastal and inland Wildlife Trusts will be offering a wide range of events that uncover the magic of the marine world.

A selection of marine events is running during August around the UK. For more information, go to www.wildlifetrusts.org/index.php?section=places:events:marineweek
